

Towards an Inquiry Classroom:

Making the most of Learner Curiosity

With
Kym
Brown

Kym currently works as an Education Consultant with his company "Futurity Learning" He has worked as a Principal, Teacher, Curriculum Consultant and Writer both here in the Dept and overseas. He brings a passion for learning and the importance of creating "powerful learners", as well as an outstanding breadth of knowledge about a broad range of learning research to any session he runs.

In this session, participants will develop a shared understanding of inquiry - its uses, the process, the essential skills (and ways of explicitly building these in learners) and ways of implementing an approach to inquiry that suits students at various stages of intellectual development.

Inquiry has become an everyday skill for people in all walks of life. It is also at the heart of creativity, innovation and entrepreneurship. The ability to inquire by asking searching questions, investigating these skilfully, making sense of information gleaned through multiple sources, communicating understanding and putting ideas into action requires a mindset and a range of skills now considered indispensable for living and earning in the 2020's and 2030's.
